

the hymn, Mr. Gately - a very Englishman was sort of a missionary at large here, and a spoken excellent Portuguese having lived here all his life & guess - read from the Bible and preached a short sermon about the importance of the sacredness of the home. Then he asked them the usual questions to which they responded affirmatively and then we all sang again and Mr. Gately pronounced the benediction. After the church service, William and I came home to be with the children and Mary and Hal went to the reception. I'll let him describe that to you.

"Grammie, Willie, Olive, Grammie Grammie Dadda belongs with Grammie!"

I asked Kenrick what he wanted to say to you and all I could get out of him was - Grammie. I held his hand and wrote exactly what he said as he said it.

I guess I'll have to sign off now and get him some dinner. Olive, your drawing was certainly well done. It really looked professional.

Much love to you all and God's blessing upon you all.

Betty

to all of us.
